2.75(b)(1) Repeat

Records: Dealers and exhibitors.

A review of facility records identified a lack of disposition records for several animals that had passed since the last inspection: 3 serval kits, 3 fennec fox kits, a ring-tailed lemur and a hybrid lemur. Complete disposition records are required for compliance with animal welfare regulations. Correct by maintaining records of disposition for any animal exhibited at the facility.

3.125(a) Repeat

Facilities, general.

In the enclosure housing two servals, a wooden support beam extending along the top of the fence had cracked and left large jagged pieces of wood exposed.

In the enclosure housing one caracal, there was a splintered wooden platform that was beginning to reveal exposed screws near the edge of the platform.

In the enclosure housing a lion and tiger, the back board of a wooden den had detached from the bottom of the structure. Additionally, a perch platform was noted to be leaning at odd angle. In the same enclosure, a plastic enrichment barrel had exposed sharp edges from sustained use by the animals.

Wearing wood and poorly maintained structures or objects within primary enclosures can cause injury to the animals if not
